Foreword

In any history there are always fair days, the memories of which never fade, but grow brighter as the years pass. If this Arrow, shot from the bow of the past into the sky of your future, bears with it some of the gleam and splendor of your college days it will not have been in vain.

Dedication

There is one outstanding person in every period of history and in the history of our class the one who has made our road an easier and more pleasant one to travel is our beloved sponsor. And so we dedicate the 1927 Arrow

to

Miss A. Louise Agnew

*I shot an arrow into the air.
It fell to earth, I knew not where,
For so swiftfly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.*

*I breathed a song into the air.
It fell to earth, I knew not where:
For who has sight so keen and strong
That it can follow the flight of song?*

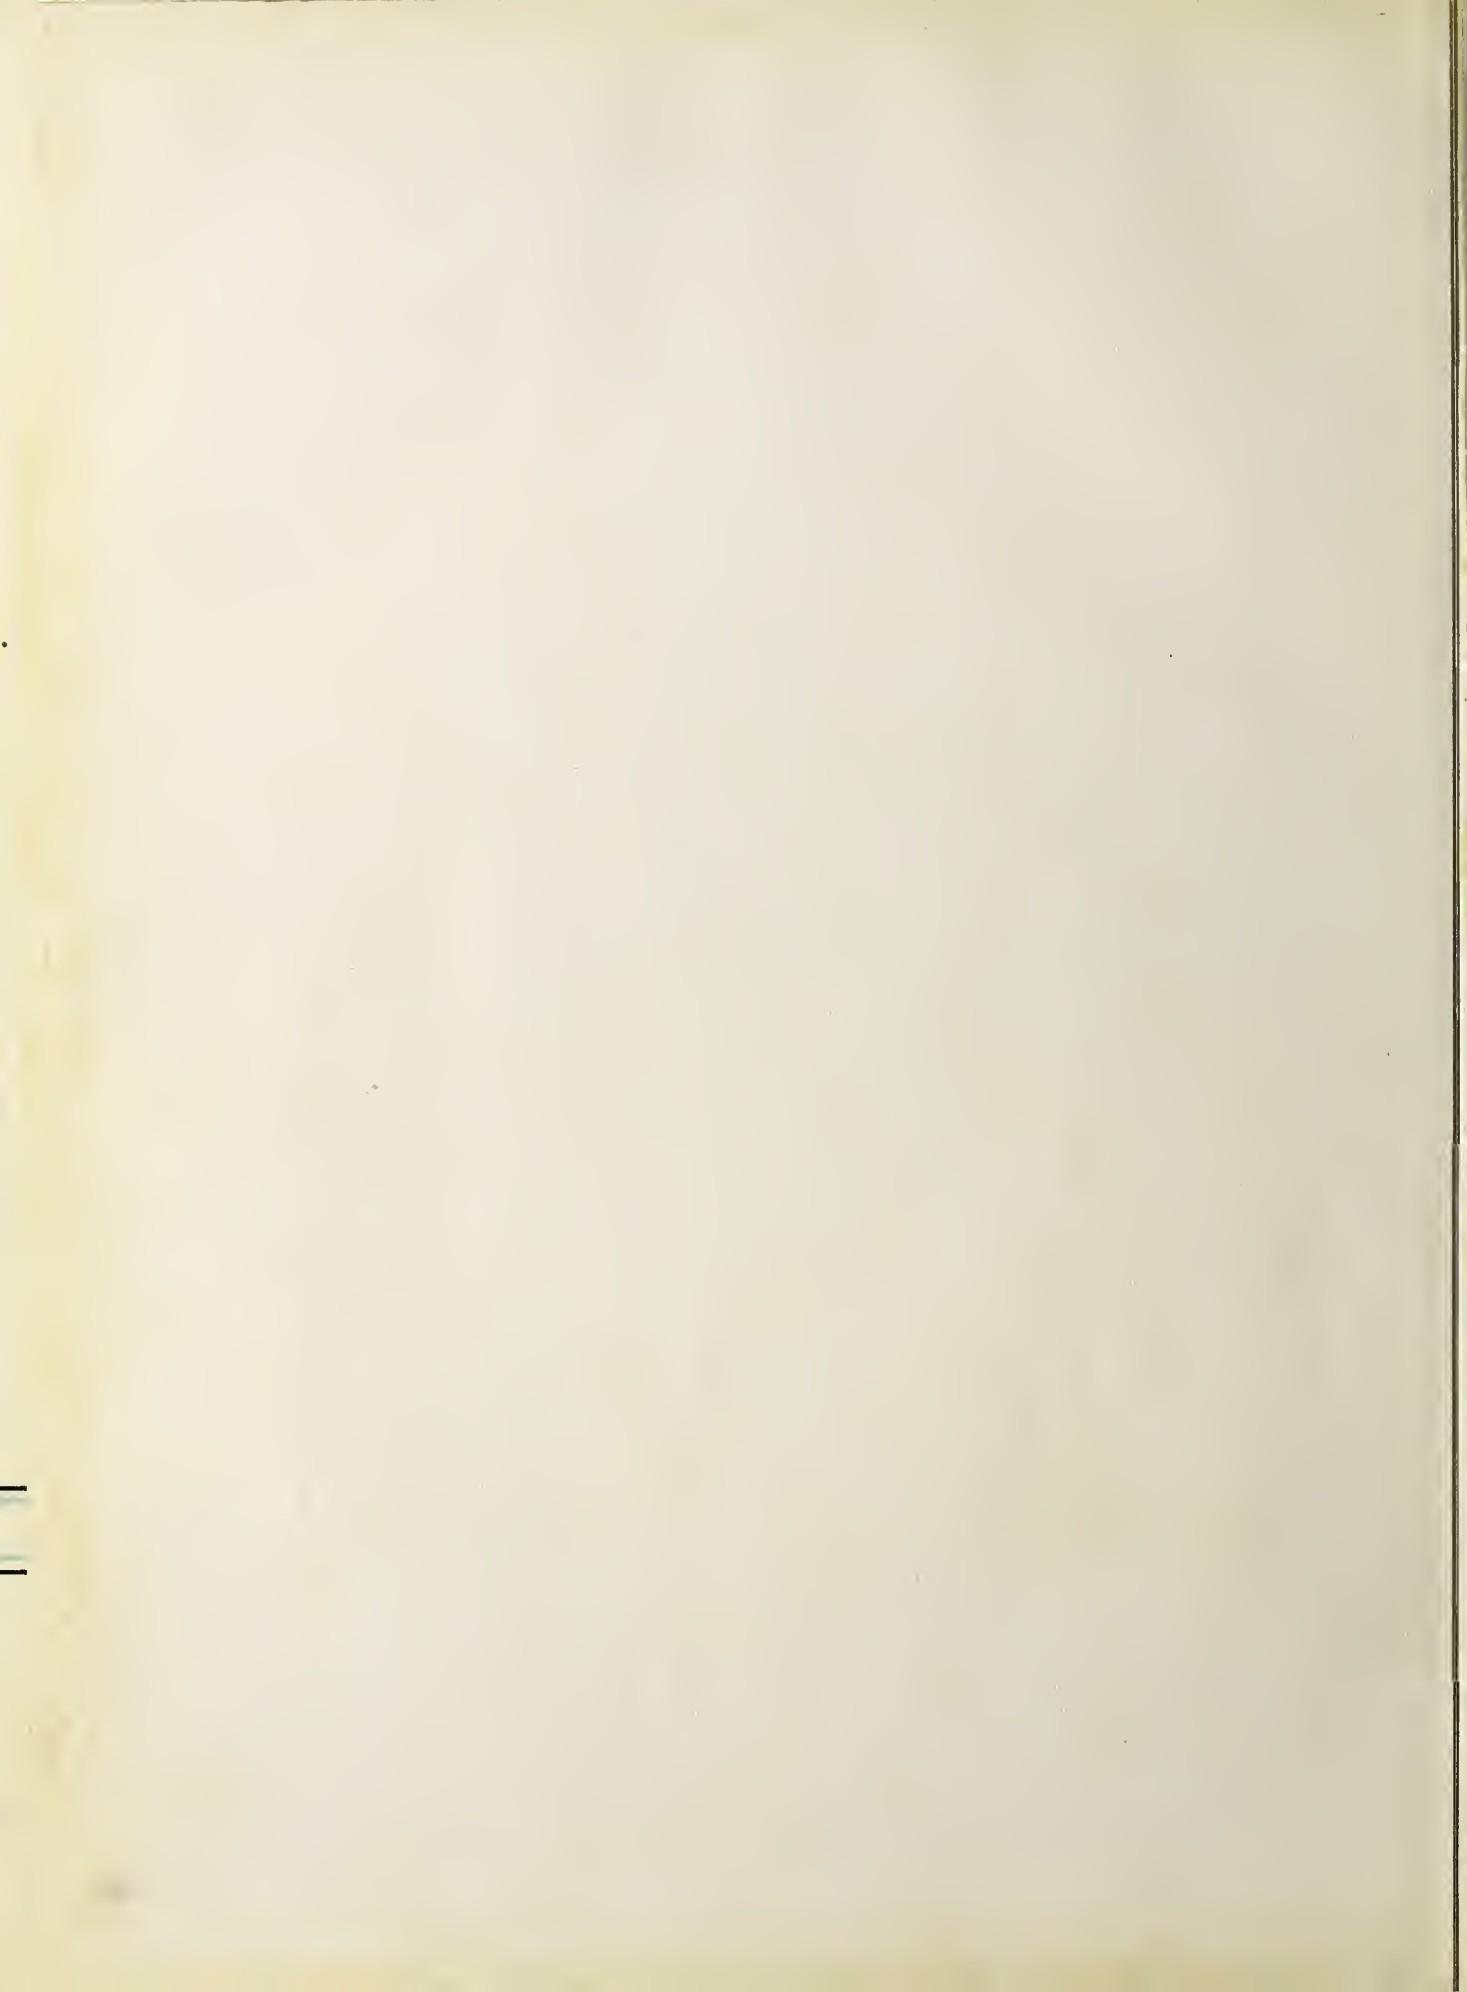

*Long, long afterwards, in an oak,
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.*

Woman's College of Due West

HISTORICAL SKETCH

HE Woman's College of Due West bears not the name of an individual philanthropist nor of a religious denomination, but of the town in which it is located. This fact is significant. From its early years, Due West was the home of liberal-minded men, not a few of whom were college graduates.

The Woman's College of Due West was an outgrowth of the same enthusiasms for education which influenced these men in establishing Erskine College in Due West in 1839. They desired for their daughters the same educational advantages which they desired for their sons. However, it was not until 1859 that their desires began to take definite shape. In November of that year Rev. John Irwin Bonner succeeded in interesting people in Due West and in the community in the establishment of a college for women. A Board was chosen and a plan approved for raising the McQuerns Academy to college rank. The building contained only three rooms, but the Board formally authorized instruction to begin January, 1860, with three teachers in charge. In July, 1861, the first class, six in number, received diplomas, the exercises of graduation being held in the church.

But the Board and citizens of the town were not content to remain in these cramped quarters. A site of seven acres, a part of the present campus, was purchased, and funds for the erection of a building suitable for the purpose were contributed. On August 7, 1860, although the building was only partially completed, exercises of dedication were held, and Due West Female College, as it was then called, was set apart for its honorable service to the community, the state, and the world. On January 28, 1861, a charter was granted by the State of South Carolina. The charter members of the corporation included both clergy and laity, the majority being members of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church. It was a rule, or order of the Board then, and is still, to welcome all, whatever their denomination, to the benefits and privileges of a liberal education.

Until 1904 the Board of Trustees was self-perpetuating, with entire freedom of election. In that year the Synod of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church was offered and took over the property, with the privilege of appointing the Trustees. On February 24, 1910, the charter was amended to allow additional Trustees and additional powers. By the same amendment, the name of the college was changed to the Woman's College of Due West.

In order to fulfill the obligations of the amended charter and to meet new educational standards, measures were taken to increase the material equipment. In 1903 Main Building, which was erected for class and administration purposes was remodeled and refurnished. In 1904, Carnegie Hall, which was erected with a gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie of New York, supplemented with a corresponding amount contributed by the friends of the College, was opened for residence. In 1912, the Library was greatly enlarged and refurnished. Many new books were added, among them a collection in memory of Mrs. Kate Patton Kennedy, made possible by the zeal and generosity of Mrs. Sallie Miller Brice, of the class of 1875. In 1914 Alumnae Memorial Hall, containing the auditorium and ample rooms for the Department of Music, was erected in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the college. In 1922, Robinson Hall, the second residence building, was completed. The funds for this beautiful and convenient building were obtained by the Forward Movement Campaign, and furnished by the Alumnae through the untiring efforts of Mrs. I. H. Hunt, President. In 1922, the college purchased ten acres additional ground for the campus, and a hedge fence has been planted enclosing the college property. In 1922, the senior class, with the valuable assistance of its sponsor, Mrs. J. B. Green, obtained funds for the erection of a handsome gateway at the Main entrance; while the class of 1878, with the inspiration and generous help of Mrs. Fannie Bonner Brownlee, one of its members, presented the college a gateway at the West entrance.

It is impressive and interesting to add here a list of the presidents, with a few items pertaining to their lives and services.

The first president, Rev. John Irwin Bonner, D.D., was born in Monroe County, Alabama, in 1823; graduated in 1842 from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; graduated from Erskine Theological Seminary, Due West, S. C., in 1845; editor of "Erskine Telescope," and Associate Reformed Presbyterian; was president of Woman's College of Due West, 1860-1881.

The second president, Prof. John Pressly Kennedy, was born August 13, 1826; graduate of Erskine College; professor of Latin in Erskine College; professor of Latin in Due West Woman's College, 1866-1881; president of Due West Woman's College, June 15, 1881, until 1887, when he resigned on account of failing health.

The third president was Mrs. Lila Morse Bonner. Mrs. Bonner was born in Albany, New York; graduate of Troy Female Seminary; was professor of Piano in Woman's College of Due West from 1861 to 1887; elected President of the College in 1887; resigned in June, 1895; president emerita until her death in 1915.

The fourth president was Rev. Charles Edward Todd; born in Laurens County, October 23, 1862; graduated from Erskine College in 1881; Erskine Theological Seminary, 1883; pastor, First Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, Charlotte, N. C., 1887 until 1895. Called to the presidency of the College in 1895; was president, 1895-1899.

The fifth president of the College was Rev. James Boyce, D.D.; was born in Gaston County, N. C., January 25, 1860; was graduated from Erskine College in 1878; graduated from Erskine Theological Seminary in 1881; pastor of Seventh and Chestnut Street Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, Louisville, Ky., from 1884 to 1896; pastor of Church at Huntersville, N. C., 1887-1899; president from 1899-1910.

The sixth president, now in office, Richard Lee Robinson, D.D., was born near Lancaster, S. C., October 31, 1872; was graduated from Erskine College, 1892; and from Princeton Theological Seminary, 1899; graduate student in Princeton University, 1896-1899; pastor of Church at Camden, Alabama, 1899 to 1909; pastor of Church, Lancaster, S. C., 1909-1910; elected to presidency in 1910; since 1910, president and professor of Bible.

Alma Mater

*Hail to our own Alma Mater,
In the land of palm and pine,
The blue hills and glad sunshine,
With her old and honored charter
Dated eighteen fifty-nine.*

*Rah! for Due West Woman's College,
The College we love best,
Wave the garnet and the gray,
Colors that we love for aye.
Rah! for Due West Woman's College,
The College we love best;
Three rousing cheers give alway
For the Garnet and the Gray.*

*'Neath these skies of radiant glory,
In the old Palmetto State,
Fortune's star has guided fate.
And we praise in song and story
All our college founders great.*

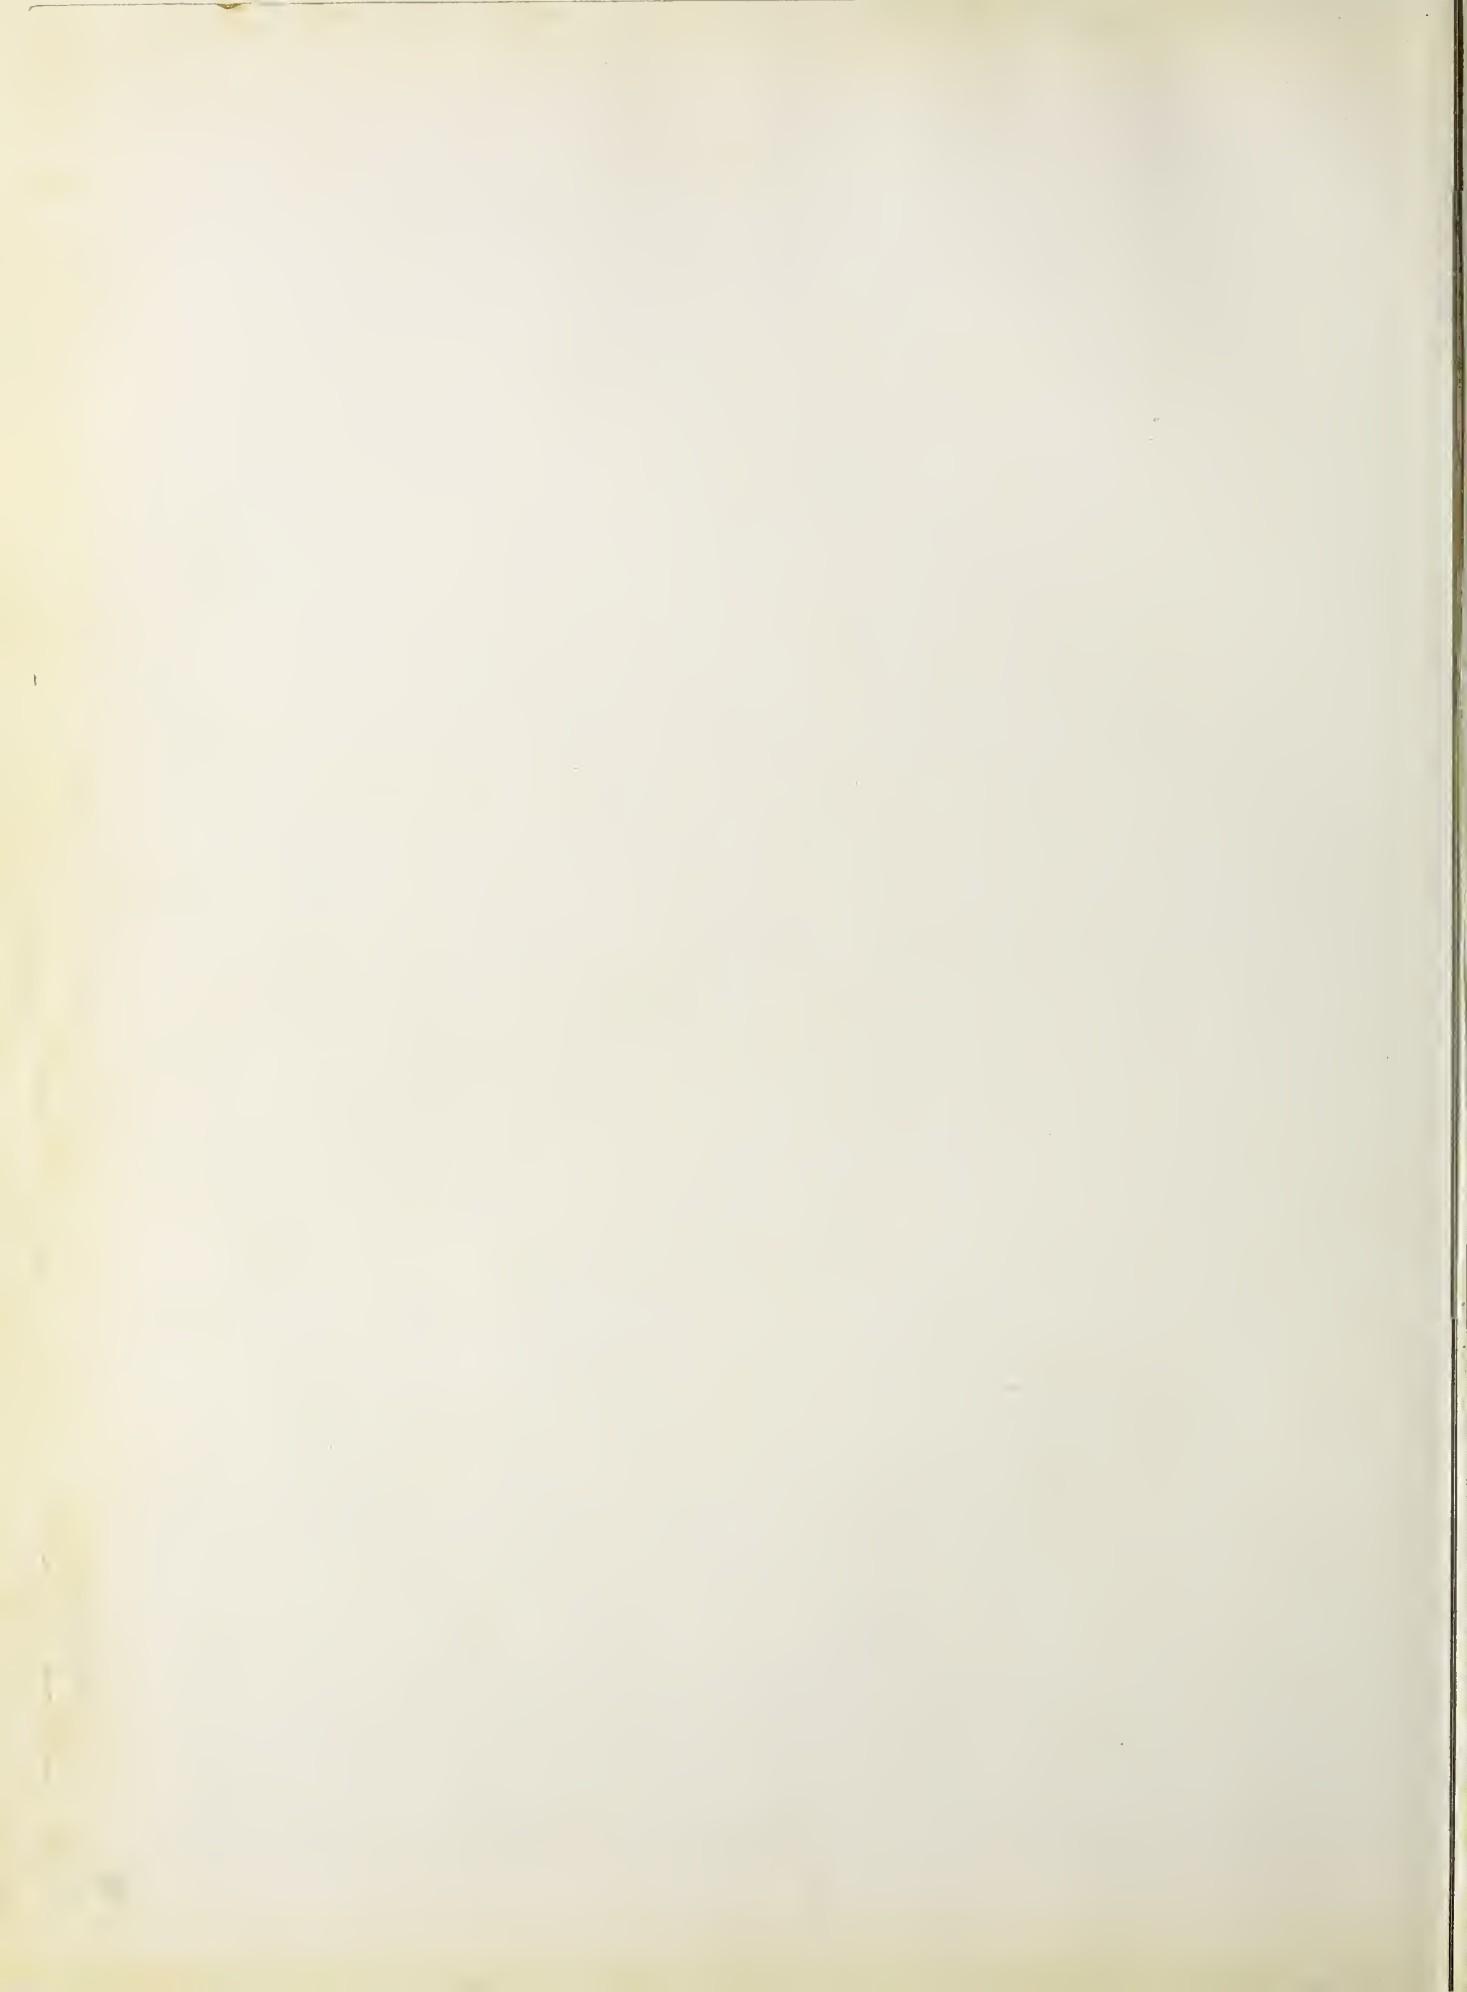

*Greet we thus our halls of learning,
President and faculty,
Students all and each trustee,
For to you our hearts are turning
In true love and loyalty.*

Class Poem

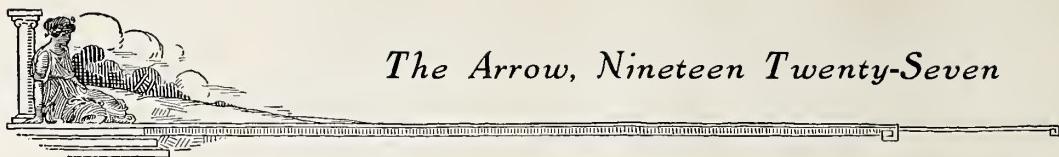

Our college life is drawing to a close,
And soon these carefree days will all be o'er;
We'll never gather in these halls again,
Nor delve into the depths of college lore.

We linger where the early roses twine,
We wander o'er the paths where shadows play;
We watch the sunset's rosy afterglow,
And wait the night's approach at end of day.

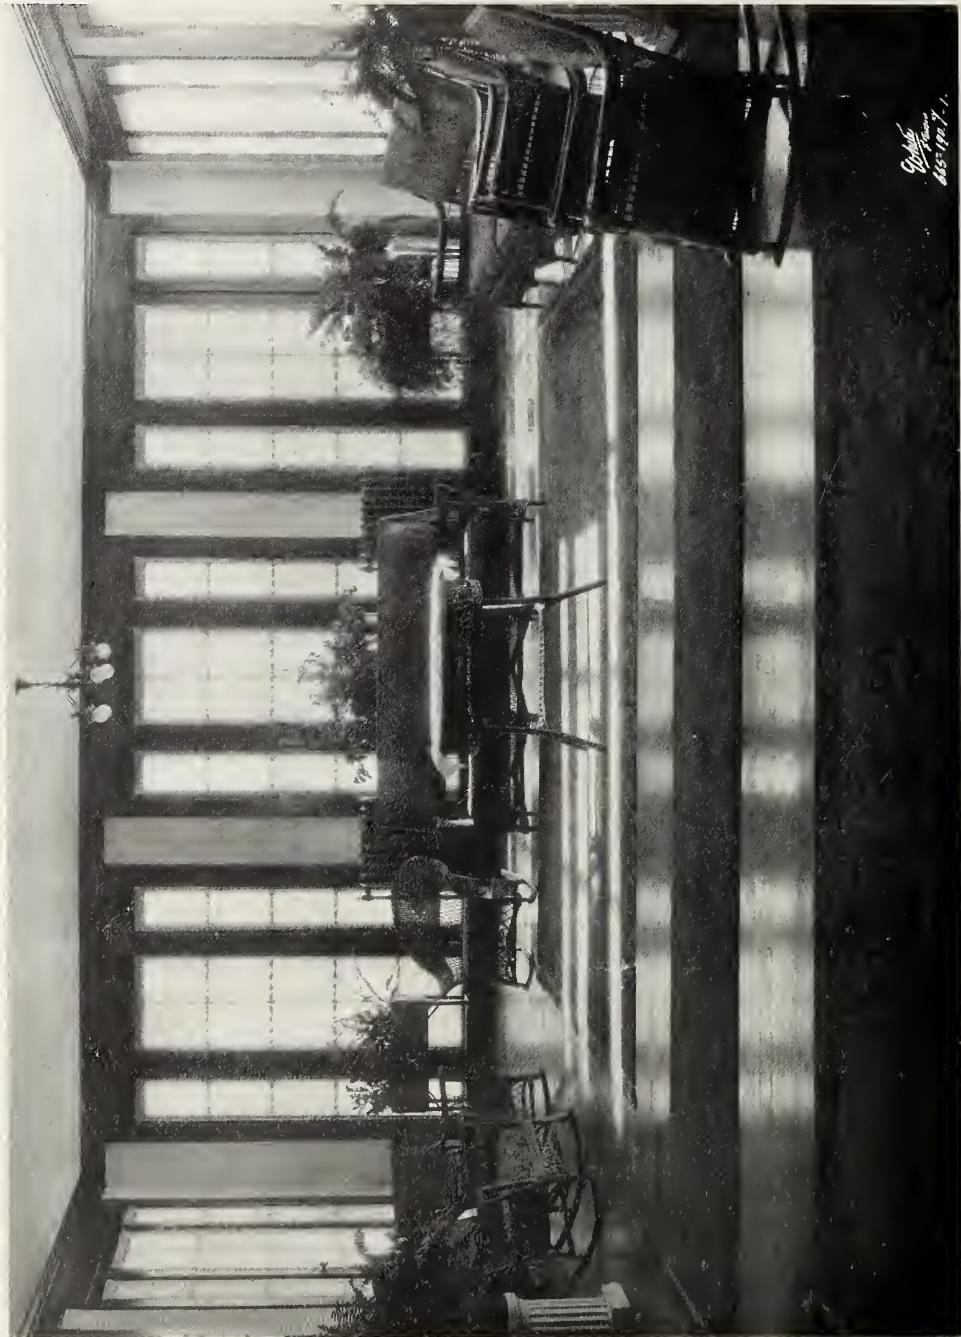

In other years when flaming suns drop low,
When early roses bud and bloom and die,
When lengthening shadows deepen o'er our path,
And all too soon the darkness hides the sky.

The memory of years gone by will come
To haunt us with its gladness and its pain;
The basketball, the gay soirees, the friends,
And faces we will never know again.

And ever through the corridors of time
Will ring faint echoes of a former day;
And in our hearts forever green and fresh,
The memory of our college life will stay.

Grace DuVernet—An English landscape with country lanes lined with hedges and a thatched cottage with smoke curling out of the chimney, four o'clock tea.

Hattie Mae Blakely—Hearthstones, oak trees against the sunset, "Florence Nightingale."

HeLEN Patterson—Blue skies, butterflies, forget-me-nots, tomboy, smiles.

Lena Ware—Cretonne and sunshine on polished irons, culinary odors from a well-kept kitchen, bluebirds.

Louise Tiller—Gingham, cool fresh garden, smell of honeysuckle, exciting tales of adventure.

Mary Watt—Dutch caps, jollity, a cozy nook, contentment.

Mary Abrams—Placid mill streams, water lilies, church chimes, violets.

Midget Phillips—Pop-corn, proms, Little Napoleon, "We Moderns."

Myrtle Scott—A contagious giggle, daisies, yellow sweater, The Curiosity Shop.

Margaret Henry—Lilacs, colonial houses, white organdie, green meadows.

Rosabelle Carter—Red apples, healthy happiness, the helping hand.

Ruth Rodgers—The woods in spring, clean smell of balsam, a good book by the open fire, sincerity.

Runette Crowther—A swinging march song, autumn leaves, a secluded bench by a garden wall, dogwood.

Sara Evatt—Peaches, buttercups, red dresses, brownies.

Sara Louise Templeton—Irish humor, a breath of clean fresh air, a mountain trail, pirates.

Sara Ruff—Fudge, the faint perfume of jasmine, silks and laces, dainty stitches, collies.

CORNER STONE
OF ROBINSON HALL IS LAID

Hall of Fame

Where beauty grows like flowers wild,
 Where grace and charm abound ;
Where intellect and wit are rife
 And cleverness is found.
Where girls from every day and age
 In gay procession throng ;
Through all the years from fifty-nine,
 They slowly pass along.

Jokes

Shorty Lyon: "I wish every year had three hundred and sixty-five days of rest."

Punk Harris: "Are you mad? Then we would have to work a day every fourth year."

* * *

Miss Lacy: "Do you find those notes a trifle high?"

Lib Pursley: "I haven't found them yet."

* * *

She: "George, dear, would you put yourself out for me?"

He: "Sure thing."

She: "Then please do. I'm terribly tired."

* * *

Miss Scott (in Harmony): "Miss Whitesides, will you please put your exercise on the board?"

Martha Whitesides: "Miss Scott, I haven't played mine over yet, and it sounds funny, I know."

Miss Scott: "Very well, then we'll have a little Humoresque."

"Oh, I'm irrigated! I've copied this wrong again!"

* * *

Miss Pierce: "Do you like Keats?"

Fresh: "What do they taste like?"

* * *

Miss De Vane: "Why don't you pause there? Don't you see that rest?"

Alice Alexander: "Yes'm, but I'm not tired yet."

* * *

Miss Ketchin: "You see, Queen Anne died without heir."

Clara McPhail: "Did she suffocate?"

Edna McGee (in library): "Could you tell me where I can find Lamb's Tales, by Shakespeare?"

* * *

Helen Patterson: "Something is preying on Sis' mind."

Susie Shannon: "Don't worry, it will die of starvation."

* * *

Miss Agnew (in chemistry class): "Miss Turner, get me a crucible out of the case."

Annelle (returning): "Miss Agnew, I can't find that crucifix anywhere."

Lena Phillips: "I don't think I deserve zero on this test paper."

Miss Cousins: "I agree with you, but zero is the lowest mark I know."

* * *

Another thing a girl can do that you'd think would be a physical impossibility if you didn't see it actually demonstrated is to act masculine and independent and feminine and dependent at practically one and the same time.

* * *

Clerk: "We have some very nice oatmeal soap today."

Carolyn Jones: "No, thanks. We never wash our oatmeal."

First She: "Jack seems very anxious to get married."

Second She: "Yes, he proposed to me, too."

Joe Bonner: "Do you think we could live on ten thousand a year?"

Phenie Josephs: "Yes, but who is going to give it to us?"

The Arrow, Nineteen Twenty-Seven

Miss Pierce: "Now, Punk, what are you doing? Learning something?"

Punk Harris: "No, ma'am. I was just listening to you."

* * *

She: "What disguise shall I wear for the fancy ball? Can't you give me an idea?"

He: "Why not go as a woman?"

* * *

"Mr. Bonemeal," asked the professor in the freshman class, "what three words are used most among college students?"

"I don't know," said the student.

"Correct," replied the professor.

* * *

Lena Ware: "How old are you?"

Susie Dawson: "I said I was eighteen."

Lena: "Yes, but how old are you now?"

"Has the girl you sent away to college got her degree yet?"

"I should say so. Why, she wrote last week that the faculty had called her in and given her the third degree. That girl's ambitious."

* * *

"Ethel is taking violin lessons."

"Is she? Why, the poor girl hasn't the slightest ear for music."

"I know; but she has such beautiful elbows."

* * *

Je suis bon,
Tu es bones,
Il est beans,
Nous sommes bonbon,
Vous etes bonbonnieres,
Ils sont bon-ton.

Miss Agnew (in chemistry): "Suppose you were called on to attend a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid; what would you administer?"

Emily Dean: "The sacrament."

Thrice armed is he who hath his quarrel just,

And four times he who gets his blow in fust.

Grace DeVernet: "I understand you have so high an opinion of your city that you believe heaven must be like Boston."

Miss de Volt: "Well, I believe I did say so sometime ago, but you know Boston has improved a great deal in the last few years."

* * *

Mrs. Maginnis met Mrs. Moriarty at an afternoon tea.

Says Mrs. Maginnis: "How do you do, Mrs. Moriarty?"

Says Mrs. Moriarty: "I am glad to see you, and how do you do? Not that I care a rap, but it helps along the talk."

* * *

"Do you drame of me, Moike?"

"Drame of you, is it, Kate? Sure, 'tis the way wid me that I can't shlape noights dramin' of ye, darlint!"

* * *

"Evelyn!" said a reprobating mother to her small daughter. "How dare you speak to your father like that? Did you ever hear me speak in such a manner to him?"

"No, said Evelyn, "but you choosed him, and I didn't."

* * *

Josie Young: "Did you know I was a life-saver last summer?"

Carrie Mae McElroy: "Really!" What flavor?"

BONCLARKEN THE BEAUTIFUL

Go there for rest
Go there for religious refreshment
Go there for social fellowship
Go there to meet old friends
Go there to meet and make new friends
You would better go this year
Some of them might not
Be living next year
Go there and help with your presence
While you are living
Go early and stay late
And
When the leaves begin to turn
Go to the Land of Sunshine and Flowers
